Peace Corps
Information Collection and Exchange
Publication No. RE001

Welcome to the ICE Catalog!

The ICE Catalog contains a complete listing of technical resources available from Peace Corps' Information Collection and Exchange (ICE), a unit of the office of Overseas Programming and Training Support (OPATS). The publications listed in this catalog are for the use of Peace Corps Volunteers and staff.

ICE resources are available at no charge, but the materials remain the property of the Peace Corps. Volunteers and staff are expected to return them to their Information Resource Center (IRC) in the Peace Corps office in country. No resources from ICE should ever be sold by staff or Volunteers.

Organization of the ICE Catalog

The resources are arranged in the catalog by ICE number, the designation used to order the materials from ICE. There are several indexes to help you find the resources you need. The five separate indexes are: (1) title, in alphabetical order; (2) sector, in alphabetical order; (3) ICE number, in alphanumeric order; (4) languages other than English, in alphabetical order; and (5) Dewey Decimal number, in alphanumeric order. There is a form to be used for ordering ICE print and CD-ROM materials.

Documents available in digital format can be found on the Digital ICE Catalog CD-ROM [ICE No. RE001K]. This CD-ROM has many Peace Corps' publications in PDF and/or HTML format to read and print in part or in whole. Peace Corps staff can also access many of the digital publications in the ICE Catalog Files on the ICE landing page on Guru.

How to order titles from ICE

There are three ways to order publications from ICE:

1. E-mail: iceorders@peacecorps.gov
2. Fax: 202.692.2641
3. Mail: Peace Corps

ICE specializes in providing technical information to Volunteers and staff in the field and at Headquarters in the following areas:

Agriculture
Appropriate Technology
Business Development
Community Development
Education
Environment
Health
Information & Communication
Technology (ICT)
Library Development
Monitoring and Evaluation
Staff Development
Training
Water and Sanitation
WID/GAD
Youth Development

ICE services include collaboration in the design and production of manuals and training materials, purchase of technical information materials for distribution to Volunteers and staff in the field, support for Information Resource Centers (IRCs), training in library and resource center management, and development and distribution of materials in print and electronic formats.

The ICE Mission Statement

To promote and contribute to the Peace Corps as a learning and sharing organization by providing reference and technical information services. We enhance our clients' abilities to work with community partners in achieving development goals through information distribution, using the most relevant technology available.

What is ICE?

ICE is a unit of the Knowledge Exchange and Professional Development division of the office of Overseas Programming and Training Support (OPATS). ICE specializes in providing technical information to the Peace Corps community worldwide and is the central information resource for all Peace Corps program areas.

What does ICE do?

- Disseminates technical publications worldwide, via mail and online delivery, to every Peace Corps Volunteer and staff member.
 - Manages the review and purchase of resources for inclusion in the ICE Catalog.
 - Collaborates with OPATS to write, edit, and design original Peace Corps resources in appropriate media.
 - Serves as the locus of programming and training knowledge management for the office of Overseas Programming and Training Support.
 - Supports Information Resources Centers (IRCs) at Peace Corps posts and conducts training in resource center management.
 - Collects and maintains Peace Corps publications.

Copyright Advice

The scenarios that follow are examples of the potential copyright questions that staff and Volunteers often have when developing materials in the field. This guide was created by the Center for Field Assistance and Applied Research for use by staff and Volunteers with guidance from the General Counsel's office.

Scenario:

Headquarters staff members create a distance-learning module incorporating content that includes paragraphs taken from:

- Magazines
- Scholarly articles
- Non-Peace Corps publications
- Peace Corps publications
- Peace Corps training sessions developed in the field

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

1. Even limiting the amount copied from an article to one paragraph is not a guarantee for Fair Use, whether it's a magazine, scholarly journal or non-Peace Corps publication. It is the responsibility of the person gathering the information to determine whether the information they are using is copyrighted, and to manage the process of tracking sources and securing permission from the authorized copyright holder or a representative prior to distributing the electronic or print resource. A personal contact at the organization may not be authorized to provide this permission. A permanent file must be maintained for any resource that requires copyright permission for any content (operationally, we recommend this reside in ICE since it is the only way of knowing when the same content has had several re-purposed permissions requested/granted – if they remain in the same location and/or are recorded in the same database).
 2. Peace Corps publications may or may not have sections with copyrighted information. All copyrighted material is cited and cannot be used or redistributed in other publications without the permission of the copyright holder.
 3. Peace Corps training sessions developed in the field should be checked for copyrighted information prior to publication or distribution.

Scenario:

A Volunteer creates a CD-ROM on HIV/AIDS education in the classroom. The CD includes:

- Original lesson plan written by the Volunteer
- Magazine article taken from Newsweek
- Fact sheet from UNAIDS website

- PDF of publication on HIV and youth from international NGO website

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

If the CD is going to be distributed or a print version will be distributed, the Volunteer must get permission from Newsweek and the NGO for the material he or she is using from those sources. UN materials don't require permission unless specifically stated, but a citation should be made acknowledging use of the materials. The PDF from the NGO website can only be added to the Volunteer's CD-ROM if it is not copyrighted. The Volunteer should also be aware that he or she does not have any copyright to the CD, including the original materials he or she has created.

Scenario:

A field staff member would like to distribute to other posts a training manual he or she created on community-based environmental education that includes:

- Guidance from the HCN Ministry of Environment
- A lesson plan taken from the book Project Wet
- An article from the World Wildlife Foundation website
- A session plan submitted by an APCD from another country; the source of the session plan is unknown
- Sample curriculum from a local school syllabus
- Information copied from a partner NGO brochure
- Sections adapted from Peace Corps publications

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

As with any publications, the threshold issue for determining whether permissions, etc., are needed is the extent of distribution. It may not be necessary to get permissions to put together a document that will only be used by the person who puts it together or shared with one or two other people. As soon as it is distributed more widely than that, or could be distributed more widely, permissions are necessary.

Copyright permissions are only necessary for copyrighted material. Guidance from the HCN MOE; session plan submitted by APCD; sample curriculum from local syllabus are things that are probably not copyrighted, and probably can be used without formal permissions, although it may be appropriate to acknowledge their sources.

In addition, copyright only applies to an original expression of an idea—original and expression being the key words. Thus, information copied from a partner NGO brochure may or may not be subject to copyright since “information” cannot be copyrighted since it is not “original” to the author—e.g., if the brochure says that 25 percent of wetlands are dying per year, that can be copied without copyright permission—of course, we will nevertheless want to provide a source for that information.

Likewise, we only need a copyright if we are copying the “expression” of the idea. If we get guidance from a host country official, whether orally or in writing, we only need to worry about copyright if we are using the words verbatim. If we are simply paraphrasing an idea, unless the paraphrase is very close to the original, we do not need a copyright permission.

The other examples you give are most likely all subject to getting copyright permissions—though you obviously only need permissions with respect to other Peace Corps publications if those publications include copyrighted material from elsewhere.

Scenario:

A staff member finds a book that is very useful and is available in PDF form on a website. The staff member downloads the book and:

- a) Burns the PDF on a CD-ROM and gives it to interested colleagues
- b) E-mails the PDF to interested colleagues
- c) E-mails a description and a link to the website to interested colleagues

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

This is all fine if the book is in the public domain. If not, the staff member should not do (a) at all. The General Counsel’s office does not see any problem with b or c.

Scenario:

A development partner finds The Life Skills Manual very useful. The partner wishes to translate the manual into the local language and re-publish it under its own name. A staff member gives the partner an electronic and print copy of the manual.

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

The partner must get copyright permission for all copyrighted materials contained in the publication, and should include an acknowledgement that the manual was first published in English by Peace Corps, and acknowledge who translated it.

Scenario:

A team of staff members begins to create a learning module on participatory approaches to development using Peace Corps-developed manuals. Some manuals are completely original Peace Corps content; in others, the Peace Corps requested and received permission to use copyrighted material for specific publications only. (E.g. an example is a chart on appreciative inquiry in The NGO Training Guide for Peace Corps Volunteers. The copyright for the material is held by David Cooperrider and permission was granted for one time use in the NGO Training Guide.)

Recommendation from ICE (GC):

1. A simple process should be established for reviewing and tracking all content that has been cited in its original Peace Corps publication. A table/matrix, spreadsheet, database (preferred) or other instrument can be completed as review takes place so that following up on any need for copyright permission in re-purposing the content is easily accomplished and determining the status of any permission needed is available at a glance.
2. All copyright permission letters should be kept with the project file as a long-term record. (The last location, possibly in ICE, is not for legal reasons, but operationally this is the only way of knowing when the same content has had several re-purposed permissions requested/granted—if they reside in the same location and/or are recorded in the same database).

Resources available from ICE

AG049	Two Ears of Corn: A Guide to People-Centered Agricultural Improvement
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT AG049 Two Ears of Corn: A Guide to People-Centered Agricultural Improvement. 5th ed. Roland Bunch. World Neighbors. 2000. 251 pp. This publication describes techniques for increasing the agricultural production of small farms in developing countries. It is based on in-depth feedback about the psychological, social and agricultural impact of widely varying experiences accumulated from years of practical experience in the field. It also covers getting the project started, choosing and using technology, administration, expansion and consolidation.
AG130	How to Grow More Vegetables: and Fruits, Nuts, Berries, Grains, and Other Crops Than You Ever Thought Possible on Less Land Than You Can Imagine
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT AG130 How to Grow More Vegetables: and Fruits, Nuts, Berries, Grains, and Other Crops Than You Ever Thought Possible on Less Land Than You Can Imagine. 6th ed. John Jeavons. Ten Speed Press. 2002. 240 pp. This useful guide to garden planning, includes seed information, compost recipes and detailed explanation of the Biodynamic/French Intensive Gardening Method. According to this guide, use of these techniques will increase crop yields while lessening the demand for natural resources. Ideally this can enable a gardener to grow a one-year supply of soft fruit in an area of less than 200 square feet with less than ten minutes of daily upkeep. This publication is intended for backyard gardeners or small farmers lacking ample resources.
AG211	Natural Crop Protection in the Tropics: Letting Information Come to Life
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT AG211 Natural Crop Protection in the Tropics: Letting Information Come to Life. 2nd rev. ed. Gabriele Stoll. Margraf Verlag. 2000. 376 pp. This expanded and updated edition offers natural solutions to pest management and the protection of crops and storage facilities. It provides detailed accounts of pests' life cycles and habits particular to specific crops, limited primarily to treatment of pest infestation over a long-term period, rather than pest protection. It is based on simple technology, which can be practiced by the farmer and includes useful drawings and charts.
AG237	Growing Classroom, The: Garden-Based Science
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT AG237 The Growing Classroom: Garden-Based Science. Roberta Jaffe and Gary Appel. Dale Seymour Publications. 1990. 480 pp. This sourcebook provides a curriculum for teachers, created by teachers, to develop a garden-based science program based on the science program at Green Acres Life Lab. Sections address starting a school garden, incorporating it into a classroom, and adapting the Life Lab program to meet specific needs and resources. It presents techniques for managing a class and methods for cultivating community support along with a science curriculum and a nutrition curriculum with indoor and outdoor activities. It includes blackline masters such as insect anatomy, water cycle and a climate zone map.
AG252	Vanishing Land and Water: Soil and Water Conservation in Dry Lands
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT AG252 Vanishing Land and Water: Soil and Water Conservation in Dry Lands. 1st English ed. Jean-Louis Chleq and Hughes Dupriez. Macmillan in association with Terres et Vie. 1988. 117 pp. This resource is based on a collaborative effort of villagers, artisans and technicians in Sahelian Burkina Faso to solve their water problems. It provides clearly stated and pragmatic strategies for dealing with soil and water conservation. It focuses on "dry lands," but the detailed descriptions and diagrams offer a good guide for Volunteers working in agriculture and conservation in general.

AG263	Methodologies for Screening Soil-Improving Legumes
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG263 Methodologies for Screening Soil-Improving Legumes. Marianne Sarrantonio. Rodale Institute. 1991. 312 pp.
This handbook focuses on the use of legumes for improving soil conditions. It was designed to guide the reader through the process of finding the most appropriate legume species and management scheme to fit the particular farming system. The handbook provides much needed technical information that would be useful to Volunteers working in agricultural and land reclamation projects.
AG269	Introduction to Permaculture
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG269 Introduction to Permaculture. 2nd ed. Bill Mollison, with Reny Mia Slay. Tagari Publications. 1991. 218 pp.
This book defines permaculture as a design system for creating sustainable human environments, ecologically sound and economically viable. It gives details on how to plan sites, design houses and gardens, develop orchards and forests, grow crops and raise fish and animals, consistent with this design system that takes advantage of natural resources. It also presents a comparable strategy for the urban sector; the book includes drawings to help illustrate the discussion.
AG278	Rodale Book of Composting: Easy Methods for Every Gardener, The
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG278 The Rodale Book of Composting: Easy Methods for Every Gardener. Deborah L. Martin and Grace Gershuny, eds. Rodale Press. 1992. 278 pp.
This book is an excellent hands-on reference for Volunteers on composting. It is equally useful for commercial agriculture, kitchen gardens, or urban settings. Some of the topics discussed include the benefits of composting, methods and materials used.
AG281	Fruit and Vegetable Processing
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG281 Fruit and Vegetable Processing. Intermediate Technology Publications, Ltd. UNIFEM. 1993. 59 pp.
This is a publication in the Food Cycle Technology Source Books series developed by UNIFEM, providing information on ways to improve the technology of food processing. This source book also emphasizes the processing of fruits and vegetables for the off-season in order to improve a community's nutrition and income. It is a useful guidebook for those who have no technical background or previous knowledge of fruit and vegetable processing, and includes case studies and illustrations.
AG301	New Organic Grower, The: A Master's Manual of Tools and Techniques for the Home and Market Gardener
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG301 The New Organic Grower: A Master's Manual of Tools and Techniques for the Home and Market Gardener. Rev. and Expanded Ed. Eliot Coleman. Chelsea Green Publishing Co. 1995. 340 pp.
This publication was designed to be a manual of tools and techniques for the home and market gardener. It presents the simplest and most sustainable ways of growing top-quality organic vegetables, and updates practical information on marketing the harvest, small-scale equipment, and farming and gardening for the long-term health of the soil.
AG312	Farmer to Farmer Extension: Lessons from the Field
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG312 Farmer to Farmer Extension: Lessons from the Field. Daniel Selener, Jacqueline Chenier and Arnold Jacques. IIRR Publications. 1997. 140 pp.
This book is based on many years of practical field experience. It includes five case studies, which provide examples of a variety of contexts and ways in which farmer-to-farmer extension methodology can be used. The book also addresses important aspects related to the design, organization, implementation and coordination of projects led by farmers and agricultural specialists.

AG313	Training in Food Processing: Successful Approaches
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG313 Training in Food Processing: Successful Approaches. Mike Battcock, et al. ITDG Publications. 1998. 135 pp.
This publication shows how to provide effective training in food processing to enhance opportunities for income generation and improved nutrition. It gives 10 case studies of successful courses in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. It also includes examples of forms and lesson plans, and information about institutions that support food-processing training.
AG314	All New Square Foot Gardening: Grow More in Less Space!
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
AG314 All New Square Foot Gardening: Grow More In Less Space! Rev. ed. Mel Bartholomew. Cool Springs Press. 2005. 271 pp.
This book provides step-by-step directions for planning a square foot garden with the goal of growing more in less space without weeds or fertilizer.
AG315	Lost Crops of Africa, Vol. II: Vegetables
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
DISTRIBUTION TO PEACE CORPS STAFF AND INFORMATION RESOURCE CENTERS ONLY
AG315 Lost Crops of Africa, Vol. II, Vegetables. National Research Council. National Academies Press. 2006. 352 pp.
This publication is the second volume in a series which highlights the untapped promise of Africa's traditional food plants. The vegetables discussed here—many of which thrive in harsh conditions, as well as having high nutritional value—include amaranth, baobab, cowpea, dika, eggplant, moringa, okra and shea, among others.
CD051	Building Communities from the Inside Out: A Path Toward Finding and Mobilizing a Community's Assets
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
CD051 Building Communities from the Inside Out: A Path Toward Finding and Mobilizing a Community's Assets. John P. Kretzmann and John L. McKnight. Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University. 1993. 376 pp.
This is a guide to asset-based community development, summarizing lessons learned by studying successful community-building initiatives in hundreds of U.S. neighborhoods. The guide outlines what local communities can do to start their own asset-based development, including how to rediscover their local assets; how to combine and mobilize these strengths; and how "outsiders" in government can effectively contribute to the process of asset-based development.
CD057	Disaster Mitigation: A Community Based Approach, Development Guidelines, No. 3
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
CD057 Disaster Mitigation: A Community Based Approach, Development Guidelines, No. 3. Andrew Maskrey. Oxfam. 1989. 100 pp.
This resource focuses on factors that make a community vulnerable to natural disaster, with emphasis on increased effectiveness of relief and mitigation efforts that are planned and implemented by community members. It argues that more effective relief work can be done when community groups are empowered to work with NGOs, and government policy makers are responsible for disaster relief. Risk prevention measures are outlined so communities can gradually reduce the number of conditions in which new disasters can occur.
CD058	Reducing Risk: Participatory Learning Activities for Disaster Mitigation in Southern Africa
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
CD058 Reducing Risk: Participatory Learning Activities for Disaster Mitigation in Southern Africa. Astrid von Kotze and Ailsa Holloway. International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies; distributed by Oxfam. 1996. 301 pp.
This publication is a training guide for developing emergency and disaster preparedness measures appropriate to Southern Africa. It is designed to assist development workers and agencies with ideas and resources for training and learning activities in at-risk communities of Southern Africa. The guide includes a list of useful references, and outlines assessment tools, risk reduction and preparedness planning.

CD060	Grease-less: How To Thrive Without Bribes in Developing Countries
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
CD060 Grease-less: How to Thrive Without Bribes in Developing Countries. Loretta Breuning. System Integrity Press. 2004. 54 pp. Corruption, as it relates to the environment in which Peace Corps staff and Volunteers live and work, is being identified with greater frequency as a challenge faced by Peace Corps posts. Grease-less squarely addresses perennial dilemmas such as: "What harm does corruption do?" "Everyone does it." "How else can I get anything done?" "It's the culture." In a blend of storytelling and strategy, Grease-less illustrates that bribery is not a harmless tradition. When funds destined for infrastructure disappear, families and businesses are left without electricity, water or transportation, all of which lead to continuing underdevelopment. Grease-less can help you work without compromising integrity and provides strategies to avoid taking part in harmful practices. Companion piece to the training sessions for staff and Volunteers: Corruption and Transparency as Development Issues CD-ROM [ICE No. T0137K].
CD061	Practicing Community Development
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
CD061 Practicing Community Development. Donald W. Littrell and Doris P. Littrell. University of Missouri Extension. 2006. 150 pp. This book provides an overview and framework of community development for the field practitioner, especially for those relatively new to the field. It is an introductory guide focused on the process of community development and standards and values so important when working not with objects, but with friends, co-workers and community. This publication will appeal to staff who are currently working in the area of community development and Volunteers who aspire to become professional community development workers. There is an excellent bibliography of classic as well as current references in the field worth reviewing.
CD062	V2 Volunteerism Action Guide: Multiplying the Power of Service
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
CD062 V2 Volunteerism Action Guide: Multiplying the Power of Service. Peace Corps. 2008. 55 pages. The V2 Volunteerism Action Guide is a resource for Volunteers and their community partners to plan, design, implement and assess local service or volunteerism activities. The aim of the V2 action guide is to support existing or new host country volunteerism efforts. Applying a service learning approach when possible, this publication shows Volunteers how to add value to their capacity building work by helping participants in volunteer activities identify learning goals and integrate reflection (learning) in their work. Part 1 of the guide is an overview and introduction to the elements of service learning along with important cultural considerations. Part 2 is a step by step guide for creating service learning projects with suggested resources and provides a real life example of the process. Part 3 is a template that can be adapted, translated, and used by local groups or organizations to design their own service activities. This guide references specific helpful resources in many other ICE publications.
CS001	Marine Fisheries Case Studies
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
CS001 Marine Fisheries Case Studies. Peace Corps. 1980. 122 pp. Developed as a guide for programmers interested in setting up marine fisheries projects. Outlines all past marine fisheries projects initiated by the Peace Corps, examines five country programs in depth (Chile, El Salvador, Philippines, Samoa and Togo), and identifies general criteria for the success of marine fisheries programming.
CS004	Peace Corps Water/Sanitation Case Studies and Analyses
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
CS004 Peace Corps Water/Sanitation Case Studies and Analyses. Peace Corps. 1984. 380 pp This older publication still has lessons to share by providing an in-depth overview and analysis of Peace Corps water and sanitation projects from 1970 to 1984. It explores case studies of projects in Paraguay, Sierra Leone, Thailand, Togo and Yemen, identifying factors that contributed to each project's success or failure. It concludes with analysis and programming guidelines for successful projects in a variety of environments and cultures.

ED/DC	Helping Your Child Become a Reader: With Activities for Children from Infancy through Age 6, USDE5
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT ED/DC Helping Your Child Become a Reader: With Activities for Children from Infancy through Age 6. U.S. Department of Education, Office of Intergovernmental and Interagency Affairs. USDE5. 2002. 61 pp. To understand the connection between a child's early experiences with spoken language and learning to read, there are four areas of focus: talking, listening, reading, and writing. Each is important—and all help to support and advance the others. The major portion of the booklet contains activities that Volunteers can use with children to strengthen their language skills and encourage their love of reading. Volunteers can also use this book to work with parents, who are their children's first and most important teacher.
ED/DC	Helping Your Child Learn Mathematics: With Activities for Children in Preschool through Grade 5, USDE2
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT ED/DC Helping Your Child Learn Mathematics: With Activities for Children in Preschool through Grade 5. USDE2. U.S. Department of Education, Office of Intergovernmental and Interagency Affairs. 2004. 76 pp. This booklet encourages parents to become involved in their children's learning, promoting math as a puzzle, game or challenge that can be fun and fulfilling. It stresses the need for parents to be positive and encouraging about mathematics, and shares activities that engage children in discovering math at home, in the community and during everyday tasks. While this is U.S. focused, it is easily adaptable to local conditions, and can help Volunteers to work with parents, children and teachers.
ED/DC	Helping Your Child Learn Science: With Activities for Children in Preschool through Grade 5, USDE1
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT ED/DC Helping Your Child Learn Science: With Activities for Children in Preschool through Grade 5. Rev. ed. USDE1. U.S. Department of Education, Office of Intergovernmental and Interagency Affairs. 2004. 69 pp. This booklet encourages parents to become involved in their children's learning, promoting science as a fun and interactive experience that happens throughout every day, all around us. It stresses observation, exploration and activities that are non-threatening to parents and engage children in discovering science at home, in the community and at school. While this is U.S. focused, it is easily adaptable to local conditions, and can help Volunteers to work with parents, children and teachers.
ED/DC	In My Classroom: A Guide To Reflective Practice
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT ED/DC In My Classroom: A Guide To Reflective Practice. Joy du Plessis, et al. American Institutes for Research, for U.S. Agency for International Development. 2002. 98 pp. This manual is designed to help teachers, school administrators, and others working in the education field to think in new ways about teaching, learning, and classroom practice. It is an excellent resource for new teachers and can help more experienced teachers advance their skills in many areas. The authors described this book as being based on appreciative inquiry, which includes identifying strengths rather than problems, imagining how things might improve, and developing a road map for change; use of and reflection on new learning experiences; understanding the reasons for change; responsibility for change rests with the individual; constructivism, the view that knowledge is dynamic, can be generated, and is valuable wherever it is located.
ED078	Co-op Numeracy Facilitator's Guide
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS ED078 Co-op Numeracy Facilitator's Guide. Frank Dahl. National Cooperative Business Association; Reprinted by Peace Corps. 1983. 42 pp. This reference guide contains 17 instructional units serving as a guide for teaching adult numeracy. Each unit contains the following: objectives of the lesson, how to plan group organizations, set of activities and list of resources needed. It teaches farmer-learners to read produce scales, use simple math to calculate receipts used, and other basic business tasks requiring numeracy skills. It is a good handbook for those working in ESL, mathematics, literacy, agriculture, women's groups and cooperatives.

ED102	Grammar Games: Cognitive, Affective and Drama Activities for EFL Students
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
ED102 Grammar Games: Cognitive, Affective and Drama Activities for EFL Students. Mario Rinvolucri. Cambridge University Press. 1984. 138 pp.
This resource book for teachers presents a wide variety of games for English language classrooms. Many of the more than 50 games presented require no additional materials for immediate use, and most other games require materials made from copies of worksheets and other accessories provided in this text. The levels of difficulty for games range from beginner to advanced, and the games are broadly categorized under the following groups: competitive, collaborative sentence making, awareness activities and grammar through drama.
ED129	Keep Talking: Communicative Fluency Activities for Language Teaching
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
ED129 Keep Talking: Communicative Fluency Activities for Language Teaching. Friederike Klippel. Cambridge University Press. 1984. 202 pp.
This publication is a practical guide to communication activities for a language classroom suitable for use with students from elementary to advanced levels. It offers many different kinds of exercises to complement traditional foreign language lessons and make them more interesting and lively. It also describes 123 activities that include role-playing, storytelling, games and illustrated worksheets. To facilitate use, it also includes an alphabetic table listing each activity, reference pages, materials needed, indication of use for groups or individuals, length of time needed to conduct the activity and aims/tasks to be achieved.
ED150	Understanding and Using English Grammar
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
DISTRIBUTION TO PEACE CORPS STAFF AND INFORMATION RESOURCE CENTERS ONLY
ED150 Understanding and Using English Grammar. 3rd ed. Betty Schramper Azar. Longman. 1999. 437 pp.
This publication focuses on developmental skills for students of English as a second or foreign language. The book contains many exercises, which can be directed toward listening skills, oral production, writing skills, reading comprehension, or a combination of these skills. The exercises are designed to encourage students to talk about themselves and their activities, to promote vocabulary development, engender cross-cultural comparisons, and stimulate short discussions on a variety of topics.
ED187	About Teaching 4MAT® in the Classroom
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
ED187 About Teaching 4MAT® in the Classroom. Bernice McCarthy. About Learning, Inc. 2000. 207 pp.
This resource is based on the 4MAT® system that seeks to change educators' attitudes and teaching styles so they may adapt to the different ways people learn. It describes four different models of how people perceive information (feeling vs. thinking) and how they process it (watching vs. doing). The book includes graphics and sample lesson plans to demonstrate how the system works, and proves to be especially useful in providing educational materials and models for pre-service and in-service training for education Volunteers.

AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
FC042 Firewood Crops: Shrub and Tree Species for Energy Production, Vols. 1 and 2. Ad Hoc Panel. National Academy Press. 1983. 329 pp.
This publication includes two volumes concerned with establishing renewable sources of fuel wood, with emphasis on species suitable for growing firewood for individual family needs. Most of the plants reviewed are not known in traditional forestry production. The publication discusses the types of trees, shrubs and bushes that are noted for their quick growth and tenacious qualities.
FC097	Ecotourism: The Potentials and Pitfalls, Vols. I and II
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
FC097 Ecotourism: The Potentials and Pitfalls, Vols. I and II. Elizabeth Boo. World Wildlife Fund. 1990. 212 pp.
Peace Corps was given permission to reprint this resource from the World Wildlife Fund for use by Peace Corps Volunteers and staff. Volume I describes the status of nature tourism in five countries in the Inter-America region, highlights critical issues emerging in nature tourism, and offers recommendations for tourism planning and management. Volume II presents case studies that illustrate the history and development of the tourism industry in each of these countries. The publication also discusses the demand for tourism and its impact – sociocultural, economic, and environmental – on protected areas.
FC146	Rainforest Buffer Zones: Guidelines for Protected Area Managers
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
FC146 Rainforest Buffer Zones: Guidelines for Protected Area Managers. Jeffrey Sayer. IUCN. 1991. 94 pp.
This publication presents case studies of different projects around the world, both successful and unsuccessful, to preserve areas adjacent to national parks and reserves. The case studies illustrate issues involved in creating buffer zones, such as legal status and land-tenure laws, as well as objectives in creating them, e.g., rural development, agro-industry, reforestation, research and tourism. They also suggest guidelines to keep buffer zones flexible so that they can adapt to local situations and be sensitive to the needs and values of local people, who can then feel committed to them.

IT007	Made to Stick: Why Some Ideas Survive and Others Die
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
IT007 Made to Stick: Why Some Ideas Survive and Others Die. Chip Heath and Dan Heath. Random House. 2007. 291 pp.
Why do some ideas thrive while others die? And how do we improve the chance of worthy ideas? In Made to Stick, the authors address these questions by revealing the anatomy of ideas that "stick" and explaining methods for making ideas stickier, such as violating schemas, using the Velcro theory of memory, and creating "curiosity gaps." The book will be of interest to many Peace Corps staff and Volunteers who are interested in community organizational development.
M0001A	Freshwater Fisheries: Program Planning
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0001A Freshwater Fisheries: Program Planning. Peace Corps. 1976. 72 pp.
This resource was designed for policy makers, program planners, trainers and coordinators who are considering the potential contribution of freshwater fish pond projects. Topics include feasibility surveys, Peace Corps involvement in a number of fish culture programs, task analyses, recruitment and evaluation criteria.
M0002	Small Farm Grain Storage
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
M0002 Small Farm Grain Storage. Peace Corps. 1976. 558 pp.
This practical field manual covers aspects of small-scale grain storage and includes plans for grain dryers and storage facilities as well as techniques for controlling insects and rodents; produced as a joint project with Volunteers in Technical Assistance (VITA).
M0004	Photonovel, The: A Tool for Development
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0004 The Photonovel: A Tool for Development. Peace Corps. 1976. 111 pp.
While this is an older resource, it is useful to Volunteers and others using visual teaching aids with people who have difficulty reading or who lack reading material written at a level that they understand. The book outlines a step by step process for creating photonovels as teaching tools. The photonovel differs from a comic book by the substitution of photographs for the stylized drawings. Balloons are retained to express words and thoughts of the characters. The effect can be realistic and engaging as the photonovel can create an interpersonal experience between the reader and the image, much as exists between an audience and a film.
M0006	Self-Help Construction of 1-Story Buildings
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0006 Self-Help Construction of 1-Story Buildings. Peace Corps. 1977. 235 pp.
This manual was designed for field workers with little or no construction experience. It details planning, designing, and constructing one-story buildings (schools, health clinics, homes, etc.) using locally available materials.

M0041	TEFL/TESL: Teaching English as a Foreign or Second Language
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0041 TEFL/TESL: Teaching English as a Foreign or Second Language. Written by The Center for Applied Linguistics. Peace Corps. 1989. 222 pp.
This manual was designed for use by Peace Corps Volunteers with no previous teaching experience, combining general teaching practices with specific language teaching techniques. It outlines and assesses each of the major, commonly used approaches to language instruction and covers the techniques for teaching the four basic language skills (speaking, listening, reading, and writing) and grammar. It also includes information on lesson planning and testing and a list of additional materials useful for language teaching.
M0042	Nonformal Education (NFE) Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0042 Nonformal Education (NFE) Manual. Rev. Peace Corps. 2004. 180 pp.
The content of the Nonformal Education (NFE) Manual is grounded in the theory and practice of some of the great educational thinkers of our time, including Paolo Freire, Howard Gardner, David Kolb, Malcolm Knowles and Bernice McCarthy. This new manual includes information from previous Peace Corps publications as well as current research from the field of education. There are field-tested ideas, activities and tips drawn from the experiences of Peace Corps Volunteers and staff around the world. Not only for education Volunteers, this manual will help any Volunteer who has to teach, train or facilitate in the field. See also Community Content Based Instruction (CCBI) Instruction Manual [ICE No. T0112].
M0043	Peace Corps' Rededication to Youth: Addressing the Needs of Youth-at-Risk
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0043 Peace Corps' Rededication to Youth: Addressing the Needs of Youth-at-Risk. Peace Corps. 1992. 38 pp.
This older resource introduces Peace Corps' emphasis on youth development with an overview of the problems faced by youth in the developing world. It lays out Peace Corps' youth initiative which led to the addition of a Peace Corps' youth sector. While there are more updated resources, such as Working with Youth: Approaches for Volunteers [ICE No. M0067], this also has basic examples of how Volunteers can help youth who may be facing such problems as homelessness, HIV/AIDS, unemployment, pregnancies, or lack of positive opportunities.
M0044	Environmental Education in the Schools: Creating a Program That Works!
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0044 Environmental Education in the Schools: Creating a Program That Works! Peace Corps. 1993. 499 pp.
This is a practical guide that offers useful information on introducing environmental issues into the academic curriculum. Each of the nine chapters deals with a different aspect of developing and implementing an environmental education program, starting with assessing local environmental problems and school conditions to determine goals and objectives, ways of gaining program support, and evaluating results. It contains a wealth of activities, illustrations, case studies, and Volunteer examples.

M0046	Teaching English as a Foreign Language to Large, Multilevel Classes
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0046 Teaching English as a Foreign Language to Large, Multilevel Classes. Peace Corps. 1992. 243 pp.
This publication draws on suggestions from Volunteers working under difficult conditions with limited resources. In particular, it offers ideas and activities to help teachers facing classes of up to 150 students, most without textbooks. Content addresses issues such as student interests and needs, classroom management, theme-based lesson planning, the national curricula, emphasis on rote memorization, and resistance to group work. It aids Volunteers in creating classrooms where students are given opportunities to think critically, work cooperatively and enjoy the experience of learning.
M0050	Teach English, Prevent AIDS: A Teacher's Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0050 Teach English, Prevent AIDS: A Teacher's Manual. Peace Corps. 1995. 113 pp.
This is a manual for teachers of English as a foreign language, developed in Cameroon, to incorporate AIDS education into the curriculum. The manual presents a content-based approach to language teaching within a cultural context appropriate to secondary school students in Africa, and contains four units based on the four stages in the experiential learning cycle: the first to motivate students; then, to inform them; next, to offer opportunities for them to practice what they have learned; and finally, to inspire them to action.
M0052	Above and Beyond: Secondary Activities for Peace Corps Volunteers
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0052 Above and Beyond: Secondary Activities for Peace Corps Volunteers. Peace Corps. 1995. 116 pp.
This is an easy to read manual with a variety of drawings and photographs. It is intended for all Peace Corps Volunteers interested in becoming involved in small activities that benefit their communities. The manual also presents in detail seven "success stories," plus a sampling of some 50 different activities that Volunteers have engaged in that complement examples in the Small Project Assistance Program: Supporting Sustainable Community Development (Idea Book Series). [ICE No. M0082]. A concluding chapter analyzes the lessons learned, offering general guidelines for Volunteers to follow in their own communities.
M0053	Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0053 Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual. Rev. Peace Corps. 2007. 242 pp.
The revised Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual is a core resource for posts. This manual provides Peace Corps trainers with training sessions to introduce PACA to Volunteers. PACA training helps Volunteers understand gender and development; develop culturally appropriate observation, interviewing, and facilitation skills; use participatory processes to build partnerships with their communities in the development process; and conduct community mapping, seasonal calendars, and needs assessment and priority ranking activities effectively. Additional sessions help Volunteers and their communities move from analysis into projects to address their needs. Designed to be paired with the new PACA: Using Participatory Analysis for Community Action (Idea Book Series) [ICE No. M0086], which is the Volunteers' resource to carry away from the training and use at their sites. Trainers can use Appendix III, "Three Tools for Introducing the PACA Idea Book" for helpful activities to introduce the idea book to Volunteers.
M0054	Gender and Development Training and Girls' Education Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0054 Gender and Development Training and Girls' Education Manual. Peace Corps. 1997 Series of 12 booklets.
This resource was originally published as a series of booklets, each of which addresses specific skills and information necessary to fully implement a gender and development approach in Peace Corps programming and training. From the historical evolution of international women in development and gender and development approaches to concrete participatory analysis for community action (PACA) tools and training sessions and case studies, these integrated training modules serve as primary resources to all Peace Corps staff and Volunteers as they ensure men, women, girls and boys participate in and benefit from the agency's programs.
While much of the content of the four girls' education booklets has been incorporated in more recently published Idea Book Series resources (Beyond the Classroom: Empowering Girls [ICE No. M0080], In the Classroom: Empowering Girls [ICE No. M0083] and PACA: Using Participatory Analysis for Community Action [ICE No. M0086]), these resources are still relevant and useful. Separate, easy-to-understand booklets address programming, training and community/school activities in order to increase girls' participation in education.

M0055	Animation Skills (Not for Guinea Worm Only)
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0055 Animation Skills (Not for Guinea Worm Only). Peace Corps. 1997. 200 pp.
This manual is written for Peace Corps trainers in West Africa, to train Volunteers in the use of informal education techniques in Guinea worm endemic countries. The techniques can easily be adapted to other topics. Detailed information is given about the parasitic Guinea worm, as well as instructions for prevention of Guinea worm disease. Also available digitally in French, Aptitudes d'Animation (Non Spécifique à la Maladie du Ver de Guinée) [ICE No. M0060].
M0057	Youth Development and the Environment
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0057 Youth Development and the Environment. Peace Corps. 1998. 32 pp.
This short publication introduces ideas, concepts and examples that combine youth development and environmental activities, and it inspires youth to see their own as well as the world's beauty and natural resources and how to preserve and enhance them. It also helps young people develop their skills and talents while contributing to their community's development, and helps youths to practice environmental awareness and conservation while building self confidence and learning leadership qualities.
M0058	YMCA Earth Service Corps Club Handbook
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
M0058 YMCA Earth Service Corps Club Handbook. Peace Corps/YMCA Earth Service Corps. 1998. 70 pp.
This handbook is designed to help YMCA Earth Service Corps club leaders and advisors with ideas and resources for structuring club and service learning projects. The handbook can be used as a map to help plan out a year and improve service projects and club meetings. It helps young people earn and practice leadership skills by fostering open mindedness, cooperative action, and problem solving. It also empowers students by providing opportunities for environmental education and action and leadership development.
M0059	Adapting Environmental Education Materials
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0059 Adapting Environmental Education Materials. Peace Corps. 1999. 168 pp.
This publication walks Volunteers through the steps of evaluating the appropriateness of existing materials to their school setting, determining how useful materials can be adapted, and making those adaptations. It also includes training sessions for skill development and worldwide examples of adaptations to simpler and fewer materials, to local realities, to traditional classroom subjects, and to nonformal youth programs. This is an excellent resource for anyone who teaches. It is a companion to Environmental Education in the Schools: Creating a Program that Works! [ICE No. M0044] and Environmental Education in the Community [ICE No. M0075].
M0060	Aptitudes d'Animation (Non Spécifiques à la Maladie du Ver de Guinée) = Animation Skills (Not for Guinea Worm Only)

M0071	Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: A Volunteer's Guide to Community Entry
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0071 Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: A Volunteer's Guide to Community Entry. Peace Corps. 2002. 68 pp.
This handbook provides Volunteers in any sector with a structured way to learn about the biophysical, economic and social aspects of a host community during pre-service training and the initial months of service. They explore and discover how community members perceive and relate to their local natural resource base and over time increase their understanding of local practices and livelihood strategies to become valuable assets for community development. This is an excellent tool for Volunteers to use in their role as a learner (see related publication, Roles of the Volunteer in Development [ICE No. T0005]). Use with Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: Training Manual [ICE No. T0126].

M0086	Idea Book Series: PACA: Using Participatory Analysis for Community Action
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0086 PACA: Using Participatory Analysis for Community Action (Idea Book Series). Peace Corps. 2005. 178 pp.
Since PACA now has been used in Peace Corps for many years, this idea book was designed to give a focused history and description of PACA, while sharing excellent examples from the field that illustrate how Volunteers and their communities, host country organizations, and Peace Corps projects have used these tools successfully. This book is intended for use by Volunteers to complement pre-service training they received from trainers using the Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual [ICE No. M0053]. It is also intended to supplement exercises in the core pre-service training manual Roles of the Volunteer in Development: Toolkits for Building Capacity [ICE No. T0005]; or reinforce foundational skills during or prior to in-service training—complementing The New Project Design and Management Workshop Training Manual [ICE No. T0107].
M0088	Idea Book Series: Classroom Management
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
M0088 Classroom Management (Idea Book Series). Peace Corps. 2008. 132 pp.
This book was written in response to feedback from Volunteer teachers who feel that the time spent dealing with classroom management issues detracts from the time they spend actually teaching content. Volunteers and staff members provided practical strategies for dealing with the most commonly reported challenges. Chapters include teaching in a cross-cultural context, strategies for developing classroom procedures and rules, motivation, managing disruptive behavior, assessment, and grading. Sensitive and complicated questions, such as how to teach in a school where cheating and corporal punishment are common, are addressed. There are exercises to exchange information with host colleagues to gain mutual respect and understanding. It would be helpful to read this book before starting to teach, but equally useful once teaching. It will help Volunteers think about their classrooms, students, and colleagues from new perspectives so they can adapt to a new teaching environment.

T0040	Improved Cookstoves: A Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0040 Improved Cookstoves: A Training Manual. Domestic Technology International, Inc. Peace Corps. 1984. 245 pp. This is a pre-service training manual for the construction, testing and maintenance of earthen, ceramic and metal cookstoves. Designed primarily for trainers with experience in cookstove technology, metalworking, and ceramics, it may be adapted by less experienced trainers by enlisting the collaboration of local experts. The manual emphasizes the socio-cultural and technological considerations involved in stove construction, and the importance of increased efficiency in the context of a worsening fuel crisis.

T0041	Forestry Training Manual: Inter-America Region
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0041 Forestry Training Manual: Inter-America Region. Peace Corps. 1982. 390 pp.
This was designed in the mid-1980s to prepare Peace Corps Volunteers in forestry for service in the countries of the IAP region. It is a useful reference, but much material has been incorporated in more recent resources and training handbooks developed by various posts. It emphasizes "hands on" forest technology for trainees, but the format should be adapted to incorporate cross-cultural and language training. It may be used as the technical resource plugged into an in-country pre-service training framework. Each of the 64 sessions builds on the lessons of the previous session.
T0042	Small Enterprise Development: Pre-Service Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0042 Small Enterprise Development: Pre-Service Training Manual. Peace Corps. 1986. 429 pp.
This training manual was produced in the mid-1980s for small enterprise development pre-service training. It is still a helpful resource to some Volunteers and trainees who work with host country small business/income-generating projects. Activities in this manual are organized to follow the sessions. See newer ICE resources A Microenterprise Training Guide for Peace Corps Volunteers [ICE No. M0068], A Community Economic Development (CED) Training Guide for Peace Corps Volunteers [ICE No. M0069] and An NGO Training Guide for Peace Corps Volunteers [ICE No. M0070] for more updated training resources.
T0043	Small Enterprise Development In-Service Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0043 Small Enterprise Development In-Service Training Manual. Peace Corps. 1986. 231 pp.
This training manual was produced in the mid-1980s for small enterprise development in-service training. While newer resources are more relevant today, this was geared towards participants with limited academic backgrounds in business. Training sessions have both a theoretical and practical basis, in that they review important business principles and apply them specifically to host country situations. Trainers receive specific instructions for the 20 sessions, which deal with such subjects as marketing, cost analysis, pricing, budgeting, record keeping and accounting.
T0045	Teacher Training: A Reference Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0045 Teacher Training: A Reference Manual. Peace Corps. 1986. 176 pp.
This publication was developed for Peace Corps Volunteers involved in teacher training in a wide variety of subject areas, with the intention of upgrading their understanding and practical application of basic educational theory. It was designed to be used with Teacher Training: A Training Guide [ICE No. T0046]. It provides detailed information on training, teaching and collaborating, with specific activities, references, illustrations and charts accompanying each section.
T0046	Teacher Training: A Training Guide
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0046 Teacher Training: A Training Guide. Peace Corps. 1986. 249 pp.
This is a six-day, 17-session training program to be used in conjunction with Teacher Training: A Reference Manual [ICE No. T0045]. It may be used for training Peace Corps Volunteers as well as host country teachers. Sessions cover learning theory as well as the practical aspects of teaching: objectives, activities and materials needed.
T0047	Manuel de Formation Mathematiques et Sciences
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0047 Manuel de Formation Mathematiques et Sciences. Peace Corps/Burkina Faso. 2nd ed. Peace Corps. 1987. 299 pp.
This older resource was intended to serve as a basis for math and science Volunteer teacher training programs. It contains instructions for each session as well as handouts. It is written primarily in French with illustrations and charts.

PRINT FORMAT materials can be borrowed from your Information Resource Center (IRC) at post or ordered from ICE by sending an email request to iceorders@peacecorps.gov

T0051	Lutte Contre les Maladies Transmissibles d'Enfance – Prospectus, Volume I = A Training Manual in Combatting Childhood Communicable Diseases: Volume I.
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0051 Lutte Contre les Maladies Transmissibles d'Enfance – Prospectus, Volume I. Prepared by CHP International, Inc. Peace Corps. 1987. 469 pp.
This older resource provides an integrative approach to the study of primary health care, intended for pre-service and in-service training. It discusses the influence of such factors as climate assessment, community analysis, community involvement, health education, and nutrition on community health and the spread of diseases among children. It stresses prevention and rehabilitation, focusing on proper sanitation methods, breastfeeding, and oral rehydration therapy and focuses on the Volunteer's role as a health educator. Also available digitally in English, A Training Manual in Combatting Childhood Communicable Diseases: Volume I. [ICE No. T0039].

AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0052 Lutte Contre les Maladies Transmissibles d'Enfance – Prospectus, Volume II. Prepared by CHP International, Inc. Peace Corps. 1987. 422 pp.
This is a continuation as Volume II of Lutte Contre les Maladies Transmissibles d'Enfance – Prospectus, Volume I, [ICE No. T0051]. Also available digitally in English, A Training Manual in Combatting Childhood Communicable Diseases: Volume II. [ICE No. T0039A].
T0053	Manual de Adiestramiento sobre terapiade Rehidratacion Oral y Control de las Enfermedades Diarréicas
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0053 Manual de Adiestramiento sobre terapiade Rehidratacion Oral y Control de las Enfermedades Diarréicas. Prepared by CHP International, Inc. Peace Corps. 1985.
This older resource is a comprehensive, integrative training approach to the prevention and treatment of diarrhea through primary health care and the implementation of oral rehydration therapy (ORT). It was designed for in-service training of Volunteers and their counterparts, and is adaptable to specific community settings. It provides Volunteers with a working knowledge of ORT and the control of diarrhea, and with the skills necessary to apply what they have learned to the development of health education programs and the training of community health workers. Also available in English, Oral Rehydration Therapy and Control of Diarrheal Diseases: A Training Manual. [ICE No. T0034].
T0056	Language Training Reference Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0056 Language Training Reference Manual. CHP International. Peace Corps. 1989. 333 pp.
This is a three part reference for anyone involved in Peace Corps language training. Part I, an introduction to language theory, looks at how theory can be applied within the competency based approach, and includes step-by-step instructions for a variety of classroom activities. Part II focuses on teaching methods by looking at different methodologies, each illustrated with a classroom activity, in terms of their appropriateness for Peace Corps trainees and Volunteers. Part III provides directions on how to develop and organize a curriculum, write lesson plans, manage the classroom, and carry out evaluations.
T0057	Aquaculture Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0057 Aquaculture Training Manual. Peace Corps. 1990. 350 pp.
This is a reference for trainers to help them design aquaculture training programs for Peace Corps Volunteers. It describes in general terms the Peace Corps training philosophy, the nature and requirements of this specific training, and the qualifications of both trainers and trainees. It also presents a model design for a 10-week training program.

T0068	Handbook for Classroom Testing in Peace Corps Language Training Programs
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0068 Handbook for Classroom Testing in Peace Corps Language Training Programs. Peace Corps. 1992. 35 pp.
This is a concise guide to help Peace Corps language teachers include evaluation activities in their lessons. The guide suggests ways to evaluate at each stage of a language lesson, describes the use of tape recording in evaluations, and provides ideas on how self-assessment can be included in the language program. The appendix provides sample checklists and evaluation criteria.
T0074	Peace Corps Language Learning Curriculum
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0074 Peace Corps Language Learning Curriculum. Peace Corps. 1994. 158 pp.
This resource is a generic, competency-based language training curriculum that can be modified to teach Volunteers any language. It includes descriptions of a variety of teaching activities and also contains suggestions for introducing each competency and enabling trainees to practice and apply the material.
T0076	Irrigation Training Manual: Planning, Design, Operation and Management of Small-Scale Irrigation Systems
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0076 Irrigation Training Manual: Planning, Design, Operation and Management of Small-Scale Irrigation Systems. Peace Corps. 1994. 157 pp.
This is a training manual that can be used to supplement a wide variety of technical training programs, or specifically to train Volunteers who plan, implement, evaluate and manage small-scale irrigation projects in arid, semi-arid, or sub-humid tropical and subtropical climates. Each section of the manual is broken down into training sessions around a particular topic, including a description of the goal, objectives and nature of the training, as well as specific activities and the materials they require, with references based on the complementary Irrigation Reference Manual [ICE No. T0077], available digitally.
T0077	Irrigation Reference Manual
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0077 Irrigation Reference Manual. Peace Corps. 1994. 485 pp.
This manual provides background information to allow trainers or Volunteers to complete basic tasks in organizing and mobilizing communities, assessing and developing water sources, and designing and managing irrigation projects. The manual is intended to be used as a supplement to the digitally available Irrigation Training Manual, [ICE No. T0076], with its format designed to correlate the information with the particular training session. It also includes an annotated bibliography to point trainers towards other references.
T0086	Community-Based Solid Waste Management: A Training Facilitator's Guide
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0086 Community-Based Solid Waste Management: A Training Facilitator's Guide. Peace Corps. 1997. 271 pp.
This guide provides training sessions for development workers beginning and continuing solid waste management projects and activities, and provides basic information about solid waste management. The manual compiles designs of solid waste transport vehicles, storage containers, and landfill models. Also included are solid waste collection systems from various countries.

T0087	Culture Matters: The Peace Corps Cross-Cultural Workbook
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0087 Culture Matters: The Peace Corps Cross-Cultural Workbook. Peace Corps. 1997. 256 pp.
This illustrated, practical, interactive workbook for Volunteers in all projects, guides the reader through the cross-cultural experience, the major concepts in the intercultural field, and presents exercises, stories, quotations and descriptive text designed to aid the Volunteer in successfully adapting to the new culture. The workbook helps Volunteers examine the behaviors and values of people in other countries and offers ways to compare their behavior to that of Americans. The workbook is an excellent resource for trainers and Volunteers. Also available in Spanish, La Cultura Sí Importa: Manual Transcultural del Cuerpo de Paz [ICE No. T0120].
T0088	Sourcebook for Community-Based Training Programs
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0088 Sourcebook for Community-Based Training Programs. Peace Corps. 1997. 75 pp.
This resource provides a basic overview of the community-based training design, followed by a step-by-step guide to planning and developing such a design for a Peace Corps pre-service training program. In addition, the manual discusses in detail some of the key elements that define and set apart the decentralized training model from other programs.
T0089	Peace Corps Tales from Open Space
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0089 Peace Corps Tales from Open Space. Peace Corps. 1998. 50 pp.
This publication documents and reflects on the effective use of Open Space in Peace Corps training and information exchange. The manual provides basic information about Open Space, what it is and how to do it, with accompanying stories. Staff or Volunteers new to the process will learn why it can be an effective approach to engaging training or workshop participants, and ensuring content addresses the area in which they are most interested. These "tales" describe events and highlight their features, followed by lists of advice and lessons.
T0102	New Beginning, A: The Child Health Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0102 A New Beginning: The Child Health Manual. Peace Corps. 1999. 310 pp.
This manual was designed to help trainees develop the skills and knowledge necessary in carrying out the most common health assignments as Volunteers. It offers country-specific information on health problems and activities and important basic child health training, and discusses how health conditions should be properly addressed, with an emphasis on community involvement.
T0103	Culture Matters: Trainer's Guide
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0103 Culture Matters: Trainer's Guide. Peace Corps. 1999. 142 pp.
This handbook is a guide to help trainers incorporate concepts and topics from Culture Matters: The Peace Corps Cross-Cultural Workbook [ICE No. T0087] into cross-cultural training, pre-service training, and in-service training. It uses a wide selection of sessions from the workbook and provides supplemental group exercises. It also suggests what trainers may find useful to include in the pre-service training, and how to integrate these ideas with existing cross-cultural programs.

T0104	Promoting Powerful People: A Process for Change
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS T0104 Promoting Powerful People: A Process for Change. Peace Corps. 2000. 288 pp. This publication promotes a three-step process for helping people to help themselves: listen and observe, discuss and decide, try something. It focuses on the skills Volunteers need to learn to communicate effectively with community members, and while the sample content is nutrition, the manual includes basic ideas for modifying sessions to use in other technical areas. Some sessions refer to Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual [ICE No. M0053] and Culture Matters: Trainer's Guide [ICE No. T0103]. They also incorporate gender and development, community content-based instruction, and strength-based approaches to development. It is a good resource for pre-service training and adaptable to any country. It also has a section on using community radio as a communications and development tool, including how to develop radio scripts.

AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS T0107 The New Project Design and Management Workshop Training Manual. Peace Corps. 2003. 174 pp. This training manual is based on a one-and-a-half- to four-day workshop that reinforces the importance of community participation in all local projects. When used during in-service training, sessions show Volunteers and their counterparts how to involve and work with the community through each step of the project design process, from analysis of community assets and needs to planning, implementation, monitoring and evaluation. The initial sessions can be covered in pre-service training. This is a good supplement to Participatory Analysis for Community Action (PACA) Training Manual [ICE No. M0053] and Promoting Powerful People: A Process for Change [ICE No. T0104]. Also available in French, Le Nouveau Manuel de Formation sur L'Elaboration et la Gestion des Projets [ICE No. T0128], and Spanish, El Nuevo Manual de Capacitación en Diseño y Manejo de Proyectos [ICE No. T0127].
T0112	Community Content-Based Instruction (CCBI) Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS T0112 Community Content-Based Instruction (CCBI) Manual. Peace Corps. 2004. 196 pp. Community content-based instruction (CCBI) helps Peace Corps Volunteers and their counterparts link the school to the community. It is a process that begins by having students and teachers use participatory techniques, such as those in participatory analysis for community action (PACA), to identify community issues. Those issues are taken back into the classroom to use as content for subjects such as health, language, science and mathematics. After learning more about the issue through classroom study, students implement activities or projects in the community; students act as catalysts for community-based action, such as raising awareness of health issues, working on environmental issues such as trash collection or stream clean up. See also the CCBI participant's guide, Working with CCBI: Volunteer Workbook [ICE No. M0073].

T0123	Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation (DPM): A Pre-Service Training Module
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0123 Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation (DPM): A Pre-Service Training Module. Peace Corps. 2001. 113 pp.
This resource provides an introduction to and overview of disaster preparedness and mitigation for use in pre-service training, and defines potential Volunteer roles in DPM and notes fieldwork opportunities. Some of the sections review DPM terminology, background information on various types of natural disasters, resources and reference materials. The Volunteers and experts in Peace Corps/Haiti, Peace Corps/Honduras, Crisis Corps, and experts in other international DPM agencies contributed to the content. An accompanying CD-ROM includes the pre-service and in-service training modules and the in-service training participant workbook.

AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0124 Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation (DPM): An In-Service Training Module. Peace Corps. 2001. 166 pp.
This resource reviews disaster management, knowledge building, and safety from the Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation (DPM): A Pre-Service Training Module [ICE No. T0123], and then focuses on addressing the needs of communities. It provides in-depth information on ways Volunteers and their counterparts can be useful before, during and after a disaster. It includes detailed instructional activities for community risk assessment and planning as well as a participant workbook. An accompanying CD-ROM includes the pre-service and in-service training modules and participant workbook.
T0126	Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: Training Manual
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0126 Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: Training Manual. Peace Corps. 2002. 36 pp.
This manual serves as a complement to Learning Local Environmental Knowledge: A Volunteer's Guide to Community Entry [ICE No. M0071]. The book suggests ways to introduce the process of community entry to prospective Volunteers while they are still in pre-service training, and strengthen competencies during subsequent in-service training. Approaches for integrating these sessions in all aspects of Volunteer training (language, technical, cross-cultural and health) correspond with exercises found in the Volunteer's guide.

T0129K	Diversity Training Modules for Pre-Service Training CD-ROM
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0129K Diversity Training Modules for Pre-Service Training CD-ROM. Peace Corps. 2006.
The Diversity Training Modules for Pre-Service Training help to build mutual support and community among trainees, and also support the development of strategies for community integration and project success. These modules are applicable to all training groups because the sessions draw upon the many types of diversity found in all groups, rather than prescribing the types of diversity to be covered. Thus, depending on the interests and make-up of the group, the sessions could focus on gender, race, age, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, sexual orientation, religion, etc. Sessions are designed to be combined in a variety of "packaged" agendas that can be covered in as little as four hours or as much as two days.
T0136K	HIV/AIDS Training Resource Kit CD-ROM
AVAILABLE IN PRINT AND DIGITAL FORMATS
T0136K HIV/AIDS Training Resource Kit. CD-ROM. Peace Corps. 2007.
The HIV/AIDS Training Resource Kit (CD-ROM accompanied by 9 booklets) is a comprehensive set of training resources for posts. It provides session plans, fact sheets, and other resources to help tailor HIV/AIDS training in pre-service training and in-service training to the needs of various groups of trainees and Volunteers. The eight modules in the Resource Kit were organized around what is already happening in the field in HIV/AIDS activities. Reports of what Volunteers are doing are grouped by competencies needed for those activities.
T0137K	Corruption and Transparency as Development Issues: Training Modules for Staff and Volunteers (Pre-Service and In-Service Training). CD-ROM
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
T0137K Corruption and Transparency as Development Issues: Training Modules for Staff and Volunteers (Pre-Service and In-Service Training). CD-ROM. Peace Corps. 2007.
The larger purpose of the staff and Volunteer training modules is to develop the knowledge, skills and attitudes of both Peace Corps post staff and Volunteers so that they may safely accomplish project goals in challenging environments where corruption is present. If staff do not first examine their own beliefs and strategies for addressing corruption, then they will not be able to guide and support the Volunteers in addressing corruption. It is highly recommended that all Peace Corps staff (administrative staff, drivers, medical officers, program managers, secretaries, etc.) at post participate, as all are faced with these issues in their own jobs, and many hear about them directly from Volunteers. A companion piece to these training modules is Grease-less: How to Thrive without Bribes in Developing Countries [ICE No. CD060].
TR007	Cross-Cultural Training for Peace Corps Volunteers
AVAILABLE IN DIGITAL FORMAT
TR007 Cross-Cultural Training for Peace Corps Volunteers. Peace Corps. 1981. 106 pp.
While this older resource is not as utilized as the newer Culture Matters: The Peace Corps Cross-Cultural Workbook [ICE No. T0087], it is still useful and contains 11 structured training sessions for a total of 20 hours of sequential session designs. It provides a comprehensive, integrated pre-service training program focusing on building up essential skills to help Peace Corps Volunteers function in a different culture. Case studies and activities help Volunteers develop skills to deal productively with everyday life, communicate effectively, and gather information to learn about local culture. It contains a workbook to facilitate small group discussion about the effects of personal experiences and trainees' abilities to adapt to different cultures.
TR052	Art of Crossing Cultures, The
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT
TR052 The Art of Crossing Cultures. 2nd ed. Craig Storti. Intercultural Press. 2001. 153 pp.
This resource presents "how-to" information on the processes involved in encountering a foreign culture and adapting to it, managing the temptations to withdraw, and gradually adjusting expectations of behavior to fit the reality of the situation. Includes a supplemental chapter, "The Art of Coming Home".

TR122	Learner-Centered Training for Learner-Centered Programs: A Workshop in Materials and Curriculum Development for Nonformal Educators
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT TR122 Learner-Centered Training for Learner-Centered Programs: A Workshop in Materials and Curriculum Development for Nonformal Educators. Suzanne Kindervatter. Center for International Education. 1977. 61 pp. This guide presents methods and approaches for nonformal education to have an innovative pattern for adult learning, and proposes ways adults can contribute towards their personal development and still adhere to the purposes of this particular program. Some of the methods include a hierarchal teacher/student relationship, a well-prepared lesson planned to transmit knowledge, exercises designed to practice the use of the new learning, and examinations to assure both the teacher and student that learning has been successful.
TR123	Coaching for Development: Skills for Managers and Team Leaders
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT TR123 Coaching for Development: Skills for Managers and Team Leaders. Marianne Minor. Crisp Publications. 1995. 75 pp. This is a self-study guide to help managers and leaders shift from a control and command style to one of facilitating or coaching to empower their colleagues to best become coaches. The guide addresses the crucial roles of mentor, appraiser, teacher, role model, sponsor and advocate and how to perform each of these successfully, as well as the five phases of development. Also included are tools and case studies for managerial and leadership success.

TR136	Developing Classroom Materials for Less Commonly Taught Languages
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT TR136 Developing Classroom Materials for Less Commonly Taught Languages. 1st ed. Bill Johnston and Louis Janus. Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition. 2007. 132 pp. This book helps language teachers turn authentic "raw materials" into activities for the language classroom. Using authentic materials is important because it helps language learners overcome the anxiety of seeing and hearing the target language in use. An important principle is that it is possible to use authentic materials without having to understand every word; learning from them needs to be very task-oriented. The book provides an initial chapter on materials development, and then chapters on how to use written texts, audio materials, video materials, and pictures. A final chapter instructs on creating integrated skills packets. This manual is useful for all classroom teachers, not only language instructors.
TR137	Styles- and Strategies-Based Instruction: A Teachers' Guide
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT TR137 Styles- and Strategies-Based Instruction: A Teachers' Guide. 1st ed. Andrew D. Cohen and Susan J. Weaver. Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition. 2006. 193 pp. Styles- and Strategies-Based Instruction (SSBI) is a learner-focused approach to language teaching that explicitly highlights the role of the learners' styles (preferred approaches to learning) and strategies (process for learning and using language). It is meant for second and foreign language instructors. Chapters include language learning styles, language learner strategies, assessing styles and strategies, motivation, language and culture, designing SSBI lessons, and designing SSBI workshops. Each chapter begins with background materials and includes hands-on activities that show teachers ways to conduct SSBI with their own students.

AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT YD032 Choose a Future! Issues and Options for Adolescent Boys, A Sourcebook of Participatory Learning Activities. CEDPA Publications. 1998. 225 pp. This is a program guide for facilitators and trainers working with boys ages 12 to 20. It brings together ideas and activities to help adolescent boys develop self-respect and self-esteem; create supportive peer relationships; expand their skills in analysis, decision-making, problem-solving, and negotiating; and have increased access to resources. In addition, it explores gender-equitable approaches to family life and other sociocultural issues and examines real issues in boys' lives—marriage, health, family relations, conflict resolution, education, work and community involvement—and options for dealing with these issues.
YD033	New Youth Entrepreneur, The
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT DISTRIBUTION TO PEACE CORPS STAFF AND INFORMATION RESOURCE CENTERS ONLY YD033 The New Youth Entrepreneur. EDTEC and Center for Entrepreneurial Leadership, Inc. 1995. 12 Volumes. The New Youth Entrepreneur curriculum is presented in twelve modules along with a facilitator's guide. The purpose of the curriculum is to help students to learn and apply the basic concepts of entrepreneurship and how to start a business. It is designed specifically for student readers; each module is "user friendly," with illustrations, examples to which students will relate, and activities to stimulate student interest in various aspects/concepts of entrepreneurship. Many examples in the text are more appropriate for U.S. audiences, but the activities and examples could be easily adapted for use in a variety of countries with a wide range of audiences. Also available in Spanish, El Nuevo Joven Empresario [ICE No. YD034].

PRINT FORMAT materials can be borrowed from your Information Resource Center (IRC) at post or ordered from ICE by sending an email request to iceorders@peacecorps.gov

YD036	Communicating with Children: Helping Children in Distress
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT YD036 Communicating with Children: Helping Children in Distress. Rev., updated, 2nd ed. Naomi Richman. Save the Children. 2000. 118 pp. This book serves as a resource for those who work in conflict situations and emergencies as they develop their listening and communication skills, and identify and assist children devastated physically and psychologically by crises. It addresses cultural differences in communicating and coping with stress, overcoming blocks in communication, giving comfort, talking to families, and preventing "burn-out." Case histories illustrate the problems children face, and suggest ways of resolving them. It includes practical exercises and instructions on conducting workshops to develop skill in communicating with children.
YD037	Best New Games
AVAILABLE IN PRINT FORMAT YD037 Best New Games. Dale N. Le Fevre. Human Kinetics. 2002. 217 pp. This publication contains 77 games and seven trust activities for participants of all ages and abilities. Author Dale Le Fevre has conducted workshops where different groups who do not normally interact come together and play, relax and build relationships. This compilation contains the most popular games and a simple "game finder" that helps planners easily select the best game for any particular situation. This complements other publications by focusing on games with low equipment needs, non-conflict approaches and general space requirements. It is a good resource for working with special-needs populations or traditionally adversarial groups.
